

How Habitat for Humanity Benefits Your Church

Taking the community's needs seriously and seeking to meet them in concrete practical ways

Stirs the vision of searching out and leading the congregation to meet community needs

Members look beyond themselves and look toward others

Building strength and unity within your congregation as you work toward the common goal of helping others

Faith in Action

Working together to make something happen

Be a voice for those in need

Establishes an identity in the community

People who get involved are often the people who are looking for something in a church

Sharing with others the many good things with which God has spread the Table of Life

Building a Habitat house is about being connected not only with your church community but also connecting to the Greater York County Community

Offering hope and transforming lives
Serving God by serving others.
